

Title: Using “Kolja” to Teach Czech Prosody (Intonation, Rhythm & Stress)
Author: Matthew Dame, University of Southern California

An important but sometimes overlooked part of Slavic language study is prosody. Drawing on the use of film in certain TESOL classes to aid students in learning intonation, rhythm and stress, this poster attempts to show how TESOL methodology can be applied practically to a Czech language class by using the Czech film “Kolja” as a basis for creating dialogues and games that focus on prosody.

mdame@usc.edu